The Whisky/Cold Tea Saga

Thanks to the world wide diffusion of the 'G & T' newsletter, the riddle of the pseudo bottle of whisky as reported in last months issue has been solved! It has taken an International phone call from America to throw light on the puzzle. Apparently in the hooley of the St Patrick's Day celebrations, which featured the highly tuned performance of the ladies entertainment group, a bottle of hooch was required as a stage prop in one of their song and dance routines. Recognising the high risk factor to the genuine article during the crack of the evening, one very frugal starlet decided it would be better to consume the authentic product, ably assisted by spouse one assumes and refill said bottle with cold tea.

After numerous encores which followed the routines the prop was abandoned on the convenient table next to the stage area, which just happened to be the prize table!

So mystery solved and no black humour involved. Nevertheless, apologies to Neville Cousins who we hope can appreciate the amusing spirit of the occasion.

At the end of the tax year the Tax Office sent an inspector to Audit the books of a synagogue. While he was checking the books he turned to the Rabbi & said 'I notice you buy a lot of candles. What do you do with the candle drippings?' 'Good question,' noted the Rabbi. 'We save them up & send them back to the candle makers & they send us a free box of candles.' 'Oh' replied the Tax Man, 'but what about these bread-wafer purchases? What do you do with the crumbs?' The Rabbi replied 'We collect them & send them back to the manufactures & they send us a free box of bread-wafers. 'I see,' said the Tax Man. 'Well Rabbi, what do you do with the leftover foreskins from the circumcisions you perform?' 'Well,' the Rabbi replied 'We save all the foreskins & send them to the Tax Office & about once a year they send us a complete dick.' LB.

Thank you for the flowers, she said, and slightly blushes as she bends her head. I didn't mean the things I said last night, I was wrong & you were right. So they kissed & made love to the early hours. When they finished, he thought 'What flowers?' JE.

WHO! The devil WAS IT??

It has been embarrassingly brought to the attention of your committee, that a GINS member (or associate) has attempted to commit a serious fraud, which could have led to a prosecution. A voucher issued by Dunnes Stores as a prize, to a member, was copied (duplicated) and the copy presented to the store for a purchase. Fortunately the store recognised the attempted fraud and refused to accept the voucher. Even more fortunately for the GINS, the store did not pursue the matter further.

This statement is therefore to advise all GINS members, that any similar recurrence of this nature, will result in the member being expelled from the GINS immediately For Life! (A comprehensive system of recording all prize-winning details, is now in place)

Your Committee.

A Reply To Last Months "Captain's Letter"

(From Mervyn Andrews, a member of Whitchurch (Cardiff) Golf Club.

A similar situation arose at our course during extensive bunker redesign. As they worked, the staff encircled each bunker by a white line indicating GUR. Members duly picked out their balls and dropped behind the bunker. All went well until John Hughes (a stickler for the rules) insisted that anyone playing against him dropped in the bunker or forfeited a stroke. As you can imagine, he was vilified by his opponents, until he proved to the committee that they were wrong to allow members to take a free drop out of the bunker. In the bunker, yes. Out of the bunker, no. John pointed to rule 25/13 Decisions on the Rules of Golf: in brief, as a bunker being renovated does not lose it's status as a hazard, the committee has no authority to disregard the rules of golf re GUR concerning hazards. They do, however, have the authority to reclassify the bunker a 'through the green' thereby allowing the normal rule re GUR to operate. Our committee then posted a notice stating the reclassifying of the bunker. Simply a case of committee & golfers in general ignorance of the rules

A driver is stuck in a traffic jam on the motorway. Nothing is moving. Suddenly a man knocks on the window. The driver rolls down his window & asks, 'What's going on?'

'Terrorists have kidnapped Tony Blair, John Prescott & Jack Straw. They're asking for a £10 million ransom. Otherwise they're going to douse them with petrol & set them on fire. We're going from car to car, taking up a collection.' The driver asks how much is everyone giving on average?' 'about a gallon' LB.
